

The Product and Quality Policy of Palsgaard

At Palsgaard¹, the quality of our products and services is a fundamental premise for our company. We take great pride in the quality of these and we want to be internationally acknowledged for it. We also see quality, innovation and co-creation of products with our customers as our main current and future competitive advantage.

We do the following to meet our objectives:

Quality

- We continuously improve the quality of our products, processes and services and involve our customers in this process.
- We take responsibility for our products and we take pride in them. We all have a shared responsibility to ensure the highest possible quality in all product phases and to the best of our abilities.
- Whenever possible we take social and environmental aspects into consideration, when we develop and produce our products.

Food safety

- We never compromise on food safety, and we are always transparent and informative regarding our products and how to handle them in a safe way.
- We respect international industry standards and comply with all applicable laws and regulations.
- We use our certified quality management systems ISO9001 and/or /FSSC 22000, as managing tool to ensure continuous improvements as well as consistency between vision, strategy and goals within product quality and food safety issues.

Raw materials

- We set high standards for our raw materials and ensure that raw materials have been produced in a responsible manner as well as full traceability is in place. To this end we make use of a responsible supplier management system and use palm oil certified by RSPO (Roundtable on Sustainable Palm Oil) in our products whenever possible.

Innovation

- We continuously innovate to improve our existing products and create new application solutions that meet the demands of our customers and consumers.

Stakeholders

- We are open-minded to emerging topics and new requirements from customers, consumers, authorities and our other stakeholders, and at all times we focus on quality.
- We encourage and embrace co-creation together with our customers and consumers.
- Palsgaard's products, our expertise, service and know-how help customers to optimize and complete their product development.

Marketing/IP

- We communicate information on application, specification, recipes etc. to our distribution channels such as sales team, agents, distributors and others who sell or resell any goods from Palsgaard.
- The data and facts we communicate are worked out by our specialists.
- The Privacy Policy for website is linked to Palsgaard.com
- We monitor our patents and trademarks carefully and our IP rights are handled and protected in the countries where we operate with the overall management based in our headquarter in Denmark.
